

Do You Remember Your First Day In First Grade?

Toting books for pretty coeds is an old school custom that boys have enjoyed throughout the years. Jim Anderson bears a double load for fellow first graders Donna (left) and Valorie Hayes at Cornwells Elementary School this morning. The girls are twins.

Kimberly Ann Bush is overwhelmed by the prospect of becoming a student and lets her mother, Mrs. Richard Bush, know it in a tearful moment.

Pulling pigtails is as much a part of the school scene as readin' ritin' and 'rithmetic as John Fafara, 6, shows Susan Batten, 5. Both children started first grade today. (Courier-Times Photos)

U.S. Prepares Resumption Of A-Tests

United Press International
The United States moved today to get back into the nuclear arms race reopened by three Soviet nuclear test explosions.

Under orders from President Kennedy, American scientists and military men started preparing a series of underground tests that will allow development and perfection of new battle weapons without exposing the world to additional radioactive fallout.

The move had been expected despite the fact it dulled the propaganda advantage the United States had been given by the one-sided Russian resumption.

The announcement did not affect the midnight Saturday deadline in an Anglo-American note calling on Russia to join in a moratorium on nuclear tests in the atmosphere that cause radioactive fallout, although it appeared certain Russia would reject the proposal.

Action Essential

But as Kennedy put it in his announcement late Tuesday after Russia had set off its third atmospheric test in five days: "...We must now take those steps which prudent men find essential."

Reaction from around the world fell about as anticipated. The Russian press and radio had not reported it up to mid-day.

The Russian press and radio withheld the news for more than 12 hours. When Tass news agency finally carried the story it challenged Kennedy's declaration that the United States had done all it could to end tests. It said the United States had done all it could to "undermine" the Geneva test ban conference.

The Tass report, from Washington, did say that the tests will be carried out "in the laboratory and underground." But it deleted the part of the announcement saying the United States would refrain from atmospheric tests and that it had appealed to the Soviet Union to do the same. Moscow Radio broadcast the news at mid-morning.

In Manila, the chairman of the Philippine Atomic Energy Commission, Col. Florencio Mediana, said the United States had no recourse but to resume tests after the Russians did. In Taipei, Nationalist Chinese officials hailed the U.S. decision as "absolutely necessary in view of Russia's bad faith in triggering its own tests."

Heat Wave Is Breaking

Fair and cooler weather moved into Lower Bucks County this morning after a heat wave record, dating back 48 years to the beginning of the local weather bureau, was equaled yesterday. George Whiteley Jr., forecaster for the U.S. Weather Bureau, Trenton, predicted fair weather today, tonight and tomorrow, with the high temperature both days in the upper 80s. Yesterday's high of 92 degrees, added to the four previous days' high of 90 or above, matched a (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

Good Evening!

The heat's still on.

Weatherman mighty generous with it, we'd say. How come he was so miserly in June, July and August when you normally expect to get scorched?

Okay, grin and bear it—to coin a new phrase. Mercury not to go above 92 today and nobody knows when the sizzard will end and that's about all the comforting news we have at the moment.

More comforting, perhaps, is President Kennedy's announcement that the United States will resume nuclear testing—underground, that is—"because we have no other choice."

It's encouraging because maybe it means we're starting to understand a fact of international life this newspaper has been preaching for years: The only way we'll ever be able to prevent global nuclear devastation and to get along with Russia is through military and nuclear might.

It's a tragic incongruity and paradox. But we fear, it's true in this nervous age of absolutely new dimensions. American power supremacy means peace. Soviet power supremacy means human enslavement or, better or worse, global obliteration.

Rather a grim proposition. But we'd better learn to live with it until comes that time when the Commie world falls prey to its own folly.

Phillies lose quite a ball game last night (and this morning) to Braves, 5-4 in 14 innings.

We're not sure that we like 'em better for having kept us up until the wee hours. But you know something? Next year we're going to have a ball team.

Mr. Kennedy's plea to the United Auto Workers and General Motors to avert the auto strike set for today apparently effective.

At least the walkout has been postponed until next Monday. Which should mean ample time for polishing off contract talks and keeping 332,000 men at their jobs.

When a man thinks for a minute he understands women, that's about long enough.

There are all kinds of commissions dealing with human rights and human relations. Wouldn't it be nice to have just one concerned about human duties, obligations and responsibilities?

Drive carefully, please.

Wildcat Strikes Hit GM Despite Contract Extension

Col. Stretch New CD Head; Ault Switches

The Bucks County Commissioners yesterday nominated Col. Lewis R. Stretch of Chalfont to be county Civil Defense director and appointed George J. Ault, Falls Township Republican chairman, to succeed Stretch as county purchasing agent.

Also, Claude Laurent Kern, 52, of Warminster, former president of the Bucks County Magistrates Association, was appointed chief clerk of the Bucks County Registration Commission in a three-way switch of Republican office holders. Kern succeeds Ault in the registration office.

Republican County Commissioners Edward B. Boyer and John J. Bodley voted for the three appointments. Democratic Minority Commissioner Adolph A. Andrews abstained from voting.

Appointed By Governor

The actual appointment of a CD director must be by Gov. David L. Lawrence, who acts on the nominations by the governing bodies. Stretch, when appointed, will succeed Col. A. M. Heritage who retired last week.

Ault has been chief clerk of the Registration Commission since January of 1959. He and Stretch are both members of the Bucks County Republican Executive Committee. Ault is chairman and Stretch is a member of the committee's new policy board.

Political Interest

Ault, by leaving the registration post is now eligible to hold elected political offices. He said he is interested in being the candidate for one of the extra two supervisors Falls Township may elect Nov. 7. A petition circulated by the Falls Republicans, asking for his nomination, is being circulated. (Continued on Page 9)

Curtin Office Ransacked

Burglars sometime last night not only violated the law but also went after the man who helps to make the laws by breaking into Congressman Willard S. Curtin's offices in Morrisville.

Office manager Mrs. Dorothy Mohr of 35 East Hendrickson Ave., Morrisville, discovered when she reported to work at 9 a.m. today that during the night burglars had broken into the law offices of Curtin and Heffner at 101 North Pennsylvania Ave.

She called Morrisville police and reported that burglars had stolen one typewriter, about $40 in four cent stamps and some loose change. In addition, she reported that all of the offices had been ransacked by burglars.

Police officers Stanley Naprawa and Mahlon Cummings investigated and found that entry had been gained by breaking open a cellar window.

To Hear Graham

A "Lower Bucks County Night" for area residents wishing to attend the Billy Graham Crusade at the Philadelphia Stadium has been scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 16, according to the Rev. R. Walter Schenk, chairman of the Lower Bucks Regional Committee for Graham.

More than 90 area clergymen are cooperating in the crusade. The Philadelphia committee on arrangements has provided 5,000 reserved seats for "Lower Bucks County Night" at 7:45 p.m. In addition to the stadium reserved seats, the local committee will provide specially prepared bangles for the occasion.

At Shopping Centers For the convenience of interested persons, arrangements have been made to provide tickets and bus reservations at several of the area shopping centers.

Laywomen and young people from cooperating churches will be available at shopping center booths to distribute crusade literature and answer questions relative to the program of Rev. Dr. Graham. It is expected that booths will be erected at the Levittown Shopping Center. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

'Substantial Progress' Is Reported

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers and General Motors reached substantial agreement on economic areas of a new contract today but not in time to avert wildcat strikes by thousands of GM workers.

GM and the UAW, under the personal urging of President Kennedy to avert a walkout that would damage the national economy, made a pre-dawn announcement of "significant progress" in their negotiations.

The union then extended its strike deadline from 10 a.m. today to 10 a.m. next Monday and immediately sent telegrams to 129 local unions around the country telling them the walkout had been averted.

But several locals, claiming they had not received word of the contract extension, put their members on strike.

At Pittsburgh, 1,450 workers at a Fisher Body plant walked out at 10 a.m. Howard Burkhardt, an official of the suburban West Miffling, Pa., local, said he had received no word on a strike deadline extension.

Another 3,400 workers walked out at the Chevrolet assembly and Fisher body plants in Norwood, Ohio, and 1,500 men stayed off their jobs for two hours at South Gate, Calif.

Wildcat walkouts also were reported at Fisher body and Chevrolet assembly plants in St. Louis.

The actual announcement from Detroit came at 3:20 a.m., after 17 hours of marathon negotiations. The formal statement said only that "significant progress" had been made during the night and the contract was being extended for five days.

But both sides made it clear that complete agreement was expected before the new deadline Monday.

The new air of optimism was a complete reversal from the near deadlock that prevailed only a few hours before.

"I'm an optimist," said GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton when asked about strike possibilities.

Reuther Delighted "I feel very good, I'm delighted," said UAW President Walter P. Reuther.

The UAW chief also indicated the company had given ground to meet the union's economic demands. Pressed for details of the (Continued on Page 9)

Fallout Shelter Inquiries Swamp CD

People in Bucks County have switched their attention — at least for the time being — from antiques, auctions, and celebrities to fallout shelters.

The Bucks County Civil Defense Headquarters on the seventh floor in the Bucks County Courthouse Office Building in Doylestown is getting at least 50 inquiries a day through the mail or over the telephone on how best to escape an atomic missile death.

6-8,000 Pamphlets

J. Russell Fell, executive director said last month the CD headquarters sent out between 6,000 and 8,000 pamphlets on "The Family Fallout Shelter." The 32-page booklet contains details on how to plan for survival during an enemy attack. Over 30,000 pieces of information were sent out before Jan. 1. President Kennedy's talks have prompted the upsurge.

"We are mailing about 30 of these pamphlets a day," said Fell. "and many others go out in bulk to various township and borough CD heads for distribution." The largest number of inquiries come from the sections of the county with the greatest population and also the least cellars in houses.

"Certainly, we get some peculiar letters," said Fell "but we can't afford to ignore a single one."

Typical of the letters is one written by a Southampton mother.

More Letters From Women

Since mothers spend more time at home than do fathers, naturally more letters pour into the CD headquarters from women than from men.

The mother asked, "Tell me how to build a fallout shelter in my basement. What do I stock in the food line? Tell me how to ventilate it."

"How much space must be allotted to each person? Is there any effective way to combat odors in the closed shelter?"

Stumps Authorities

She really stumped the CD authorities by asking "What is the most effective disinfectant or insecticide to put in garbage? What kind of garbage containers should (Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

Three plans are offered:

1. Bus reservations must be made in person at the regional office, 139 Trenton Road, Fairless Hills, at one of the shopping center booths, or through the offices of cooperating churches.

2. Phone requests will be received from families driving to the Philadelphia Stadium for reserved tickets and Lower Bucks County identification badges. Tickets will be sent by return mail.

3. Persons now holding reserved seat tickets from the Philadelphia Crusade office may phone the regional office for Bucks County Night badges or receive them at one of the shopping center booths. Badges will also be sent by return mail.

"Area businessmen will subsidize the cost of bus transportation allowing people to attend the crusade at the low cost of fifty cents," the Rev. M. Schenk said, "and buses will depart and return to the shopping centers where after-business hours will allow for ample free parking."

Big Success

Dr. Graham has said that the Greater Philadelphia Crusade will likely rank as "one of the most successful and significant" among the many he has conducted over the past 13 years. An estimated 5,000 persons have responded during the 14 services to the closing invitation to openly profess, or renew, their faith in Jesus Christ.

The local crusade office may be contacted by calling Windsor

13,000 Told To Convert

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Evangelist Billy Graham told a crowd of 13,000 in Convention Hall Tuesday night that in the words of the Bible they must be converted.

He said that modern advertising is concerned with "converting you from one brand to another." In the field of law, he continued, property is converted from real to personal and in the military, standard weapons are being converted to nuclear weapons.

Graham said a Chicago psychiatrist told him recently that "this generation needs conversion more than any other."

"Many of your souls are empty but you take a sleeping pill and you tell your soul to be quiet," he said. "Joining the church today has become a status symbol."

Graham said he had talked to "gangsters from Mickey Cohen, up or down, and every one of them has begun by telling me how much good they did, that they were members of a certain church and that they gave so much a year to charity."

Levittown Woman Gives Eyes To Bank

Mrs. Annette K. Eckman, who died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Keli-us of 6 Spinythorn Road, Snowball Gate, has donated her eyes to the Delaware Valley Eye Bank. She is the second person in this area to do so.

Eyes received from such donations are used to restore sight to blind persons suffering from certain kinds of diseases.

Dr. John McGraw, pathologist at Lower Bucks County Hospital, performed the "enucleation."

Lions Project

Mrs. Eckman is the mother-in-law of William Keli-us, past president of the Levittown Lions Club. The Levittown Lions are co-sponsors of the Delaware Valley Eye Bank. The Falls club is also a sponsor.

Mrs. Eckman was a former resident of Haddonfield, N.J. who has resided in Levittown since 1952. She was 87.

In addition to her daughter and son-in-law Mrs. Eckman is survived by two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday morning at 11 o'clock from the funeral home of James Stretch, 8 King Highway West, Haddonfield, N.J. The viewing will be from 7 to 9 on Thursday evening.

Interment will be in Harleigh Cemetery in Camden, N.J.

'Operation Levittown'

Bucks Signs Pact To Aid Commuters

The Bucks County Commissioners yesterday signed a five-county pact for joint action on mass transportation problems, including an "Operation Levittown" for Lower Bucks commuters.

The commissioners voted unanimously to join the Southeastern Pennsylvania Compact with Philadelphia and Chester, Delaware and Montgomery Counties.

State, Federal Funds

The counties in the compact, by unanimous action, will apply for state and federal funds to improve commuter services between their counties and Philadelphia.

They are agreeing, by their signatures "to solve the traffic and transportation problems by promoting, developing, maintaining and improving passenger service on public transportation facilities in the most efficient and economical manner."

Two representatives of each county will form an "action committee." Commission Chairman Edward B. Boyer said Bucks County Solicitor Samuel S. Gray, Jr. and Franklin C. Wood, executive director of the County planning commission, will probably be named to the committee.

PRR Facilities

"Operation Levittown" would involve the Pennsylvania Railroad facilities along the main line from Philadelphia to Trenton. Commuter trains on this line serve Cornwells Heights, Bristol and Croydon.

The compact provides for its first attempted project to be "Operation Lansdale," between Philadelphia and Montgomery Counties. The five counties will apply for federal funds as a "demonstration grant" for a "pilot project."

It is designed to give "reduced fare and improved service," with the two counties sharing the costs after federal funds.

No County Funds

Boyer said no Bucks County funds have been committed for such projects.

"It is my understanding that we are not permitted to use county funds for such projects," he said. "But from observing the results of 'Operation Lansdale' we will learn whether an 'Operation Levittown' would be worthwhile."

The inter-county compact was suggested by several Philadelphia projects in which the city contributes to the cost of commuter trains of the Pennsylvania and Reading Railroads within the city.

In another action on mass transportation, the Bucks County Commissioner voted to oppose an attempt by the Reading Co. to remove a 24-hour watchman from its crossing gate at Langhorne-Pennell Station. The Public Utility Commission will be informed of the commissioners' protest.

McNab Has Appendectomy

Horace G. McNab, the Levittown Businessmen's Association's energetic and sharp-witted account executive, is recuperating in Lower Bucks County Hospital following an appendicitis attack midnight Sunday.

McNab said the attack was sudden and unexpected. He is now resting in Room 2-A-10 at the hospital.

He expects to return to his Jerico Mountain home outside of New Hope on Friday to recuperate.

Maintaining his sense of humor, McNab said, "The nurses are all attractive and everything's fine."

Commando friends of McNab were reportedly trying to smuggle a portable air conditioner into his room.

Officials from four Lower Bucks municipalities and a spokesman from the county health department met last night at the Falls Township Building to discuss with members of Falls Township's Sewer and Water Authority new sewer lines to be provided for 1,000 Falls homes, the Fergusonville sewage disposal plant acquired by the Falls Authority last night from the Danherst Corporation and the implications of the project for the various political subdivisions.

Arrest Youth For Loitering

A Tullytown youth identified as Richard N. Foraker, 18, 209 Main St., was arrested in the Kenwood section of Levittown at about 4:30 this morning and charged with loitering and prowling, according to Bristol Township police.

The police added that motor vehicle charges, "probably reckless driving," also will be filed against Foraker. They said the auto charges will stem from a collision in which the suspect was involved as he attempted to flee from the police. Foraker's car struck a parked car owned by Joseph J. Haraburda, 68 King-apple Lane, causing $800 damage, according to Haraburda's vehicle, police said.

According to Lt. Thomas Stewart and Sgt. Robert Hibbs, who made the arrest, Foraker was prowling outside the home of Mrs. William Simon, 40 Kentucky Lane. They said the youth apparently was attempting to attract the attention of Mrs. Simon's 18-year-old daughter.

The daughter reportedly screamed to attract her mother's attention. Mrs. Simon summoned the police.

Township Justice of the Peace Rene Tritschler ordered bail on the loitering and prowling charges pending a further hearing.

Falls Twp. Solicitor

Bombshell Dropped On Five-Man Board

A legal bombshell was dropped last night into a discussion by Falls Township's supervisors on increasing their three-man board to five members.

Township solicitor William F. Heefner expressed doubts about a new state statute providing for the increase in political subdivision legislators. He asked the board, "What happens to the two new supervisors if the court in the future decides the act is illegal, unconstitutional or inoperative? What would be the status of these supervisors and the resolutions and ordinances they enacted? There is no precedent to back up this act and the election code doesn't provide for it."

Voices Opinion

Heefner's opinion was voiced during last night's monthly board of supervisors meeting. The attorney last month was asked by the supervisors to conduct an investigation into the legal aspects of the law signed by Gov. David L. Lawrence July 13. Using the solicitor's report, the board hoped to be able to decide on a course of action regarding the act.

The board can be enlarged either by resolution passed by the supervisors, as has been done in Lower Southampton, Middletown, Bensalem and Warminster Townships or by a petition signed by five per cent of the registered voters.

Bucks County Court has approved the petitions forwarded by the four municipalities. Bucks County's Board of Commissioners was reported to be planning a meeting with its solicitor, Samuel S. Gray Jr., to determine how names from each township will be placed on the November ballot.

Wait Action

Falls Township Republicans circulated a petition seeking to enlarge the board and it has been sent to the court with more than the required number of signatures. No action has been taken on this petition by the court. According to one source, the court is waiting to see whether or not the Falls Supervisors will follow the other municipalities with an enlargement petition, as well as waiting to see if objections are filed to the citizens' petition.

And the supervisors' decision in Falls may depend upon Heefner's advice, which of necessity, cannot be too definite, since no precedent exists in the case.

Heefner told the board he doubted the wisdom of pursuing the matter as the new act now stands. Some of the questions posed by the board attorney, to which he said there are no now legal, judicial answers are:

What is the final date for filing petitions to increase the size of the boards? No cut off date is specified in the act and petitions could conceivably be entered until election day, according to Heefner.

The solicitor pointed out, "With all the many questions that could be raised about the act, it would be impossible to determine the status of petitions and court action might extend or delay a decision by the court to accept the petitions until after election day or to a time making it too late to include candidates' names on November's ballot."

There are no provisions in the act to indicate how people will be placed on the ballot, Heefner stated. Will a man seeking a six-year term as one of the new supervisors run against a candidate in a similar position or against an incumbent or against someone seeking a four year term, Heefner asked.

Supervisor Edward Howley said the board is not opposed to two additional supervisors, but is required by law to seek the advice of its solicitor. "We are not stalling," Howley declared, "and the board will make a decision in time for it to act one way or another."

Howley added, "A lot of people think the act is unfair, if not unconstitutional, because the residents are not given a chance to select their candidates by a primary election ballot."

Heefner told the supervisors it would behoove the board to step with care and be sure of what it is doing. He concluded the resume of his investigation by declaring, "I can make no promise as to whether or not the act will stand the test of a court action."

Some decision on enlarging the board that governs Lower Bucks' second largest municipality may be forthcoming tomorrow night.

Beginning at 8 p.m. at the Yards Ave., Fallsington, Municipal Building, the board of supervisors will discuss the advisability of enlarging their board. The special board meeting is open to the public.

Texas Schools Integrated

By United Press International

A Negro mother with a little boy in tow walked up to Ben Milan school. She seemed on the verge of tears. A white mother, emerging after leaving her own first-grader child, smiled at her. That seemed to be the only drama today as Dallas, Tex., the nation's largest segregated public school district, admitted Negro pupils to white schools for the first time.

Strong police patrols were on duty but were not needed. The 10 Negro girls and 8 boys, most of them 6 years old, began classes without incident at 8 previously-white primary schools.

There were no crowds and no demonstrations. One Negro mother, who refused to be identified, said her son was not worried "because he is too young to know what is going on."

Peaceful compliance following intensive public education apparently was becoming the pattern of 1961. A week ago Atlanta, Ga., calmly dropped a century of segregated schooling. Integration was progressing in other areas, too.

Galveston, Tex., public schools desegregate for the first time today. Areas in Virginia, Louisiana, Florida, Arkansas and Michigan also faced the pressure of Negro demands for removal of racial bars.

Dallas, with a careful 18-month public preparation campaign behind it, realized its first public education integration as Negro students enter the first grades in eight schools.

Officials expected no trouble, but specially-trained police details of 50 men, wearing football helmets and armed with nightsticks, were ordered out to head off possible violence.

The exact number of Negro children was not revealed, but it was believed there were from 13 to 30 involved.

Parents of the Negroes were told to bring their youngsters to school "like any other parents, without escort" and through the front doors.

Dallas, which is on the edge of the section of Texas generally considered "Southern" rather than "Western" in its outlook, had integrated its restaurants as a step to prepare the way for school desegregation. The integration move has been spearheaded by 250 prominent businessmen who form the Dallas Citizens Council.

GOP Club To Hear Keller

State Senator Marvin V. Keller will speak on Congressional reapportionment at the monthly meeting of the Middletown Township Republican Club tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Middletown Township municipal building, Route 413, Louis Miller, program chairman, announced today.

The meeting will be the first of the fall season, Miller said. The club has a membership of more than 500 and is the largest and most active Republican group in Bucks County, he declared, with an aim of a total membership of 700.

Largest In This Section Of State

A civil defense drill, described by those in charge as "the largest in this section of Pennsylvania" will be held Saturday at Lower Bucks County Hospital.

There will be 500 men, 30 pieces of fire apparatus and 11 ambulances participating in the exercise, called the Mutual Aid Disaster Plan for the Lower Bucks County Hospital Area.

10 A.M. Drill

The 10 a.m. drill, including fire rescue and police from all of Lower Bucks, is in charge of Carl D'Emidio and Nick Siano, chiefs of the Third District Fire Company.

The drill plan will be used in all major fires or other disasters involving the hospital.

Fire whistles will sound the beginning of the exercise, but sirens on fire trucks and ambulances will not sound in the hospital area.

A fire drill by hospital personnel is scheduled to coincide with the outside units.

To Handle Traffic

Bristol Township and Bristol Borough police, both regular and auxiliary, will handle highway traffic.

Fire control units will send men with oxygen masks through the hospital. These men are trained to enter heavy smoke concentrations to help nurses remove patients in case of emergency.

Cyril Homan, hospital fire marshal, will supervise activities within the building.

Keep Road Open

During the exercise, Bath Road, on which the hospital is located, will remain open. Hospital drive-ways and the accident ward will be kept clear.

Units taking part are:

3rd District Fire Co., in whose area the Hospital is located, Croydon Fire Co., Edgely Fire Co., Levittown Fire Co., Newportville Fire Co., Bristol Consolidated, Bristol Vol. Fire Co. 1, American Hose, Hook and Ladder Co. 2, Goodwill Hose Co. 3, Bristol Vol. Fire Co. 6.

Croydon Fire Co., Fairless Hills Fire Co., American Hose, Hook and Ladder Co. 2, Yardley-Makefield Fire Co., Union Fire Co. of Morrisville, Bucks County Rescue Squad, Trevose Heights Ambulance Unit, Trevose Fire Co., Rescue Team, Pennell - Middletown Ambulance Unit, Delaware Valley Rescue Squad, Union Fire Co. of Morrisville Ambulance Unit.

Remaining on the ballot as independents are Falls Township Justice of the Peace John Melvin, seeking the county sheriff post; Mrs. Helen Cliver, commissioner candidate from Bristol Township's fourth ward, John Lambert, Bristol Township constable candidate and Paul Terrells, Falls Township supervisor candidate.
